BIO

Stacy Caballero is multicultural storyteller and fashion historian who works as a global Costume Designer for Feature Films, Television and Theatre. She is known as an artistically diverse talent in the entertainment industry. She has the ability to execute highly conceptual designs with impeccable detail and craftsmanship. Some of her favorite projects include “Coming 2 America”, “Harriett”, “Miss India America”, “Thor Ragnarök”, “Burlesque”, “Star Trek”, “Man of Steel”, “Jupiter Ascending”.

Prior to her work in Film and Television, Stacy was born and raised in a small town along Bayou Lafourche, outside of New Orleans. Her Lebanese grandparents owned and operated a Department Store in Louisiana, so from a very young age, Stacy had a passion for fashion, costumes, history, and storytelling. After spending a year at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York studying fashion design, she returned to Louisiana to finish her Bachelor of Science degree from Louisiana State University. While in undergrad, Stacy enrolled in a theatre class as an elective and discovered the compelling world of storytelling through costume design. Costume Design encapsulated everything she loved into one. After much hard work in the theatre, Stacy was awarded a scholarship to DePaul University, The Theatre School, in Chicago where she earned her Masters of Fine Arts Degree.

While designing school productions on the Main Stage at DePaul’s Merle Reskin Theatre in Downtown Chicago, Stacy was also costume designing regional productions for Steppenwolf Theatre in Chicago. After graduation, Stacy moved to Los Angeles, where she currently lives and works globally. During Covid-19 quarantine, Stacy started taking Psychology classes from Yale, slowly earning credits towards a PHD in Psychology. Stacy is currently working on the sequel to Black Panther, titled “Black Panther: Wakanda Forever” for Marvel Cinematic Universe.
